U.S. Is Cool to Quick Summit Talk Proposal

Soviet Suggestion Is Expected To Be Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported today to reject the Soviet Union's new demand for a quick summit conference without prior low-level diplomatic talks.

The American view is that Moscow's terms for such a parley would turn it into a spectacle instead of a decision-making meeting.

Responsible officials said a new note just received from Moscow apparently had hardened the deadlock of Communist and Western countries over a heads-of-government meeting.

Moscow showed no signs of backing down on its oft-repeated demand that summit leaders meet without advance lower level negotiations on East-West problems.

A foreign ministers conference empowered to discuss major problems, Moscow said, would only delay a summit conference or block it altogether.

The Soviet note proposed again the items Moscow wants on the agenda and rejected most of those the United States has proposed.

The Kremlin refusal to budget, officials said, dimmed prospects that President Eisenhower would sit down with Soviet Premier Bulganin and other world leaders this fall as had been generally anticipated.

Eisenhower has no intention of yielding on the need for solid diplomatic preparation, the authorities said.

In a speech before the Manchester, N.H., Council on World Affairs, Asst. Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox noted that Soviet party boss Khrushchev "has persistently sought to identify himself with the world's quest for peace."

"A summit meeting would provide him with the most solemn and influential forum for him to repeat his pronouncements about world peace. Even if no agreement were reached this exercise would be of considerable value to the Soviet cause."

Elvis Arrives At Camp, Trys Hand At Making Up Bed

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (AP)—Singer Elvis Presley, idol of America's rock 'n' roll fans, arrived at Ft. Chaffee late Monday night and began his Army service to the cheers of about 100 civilian fans. Presley and 21 other recruits rolled into camp from Memphis aboard a chartered bus shortly before midnight. He was in charge of his contingent.

Presley's schedule today called for five hours of aptitude tests, a classification interview and several lectures. He will make the rounds wearing the sports jacket and slacks he wore to camp. Uniforms won't be issued to him until Wednesday.

The 23-year-old singer, whose gross income last year was almost a million dollars, will get the $7 salary advance provided to tide over recruits until payday. Teen-age girls among the crowd which greeted Presley screamed a welcome. He was unruffled by the reception.

The recruits were taken to a supply building where blankets, sheets and pillows were issued. Then Cpl. John D. Smith of North Little Rock, Ark., steered them to a nearby barracks.

Smith showed the newcomers how to make up a bed GI style. As Presley worked on his bed, someone asked if he ever made one before. He smilingly said he had not.

Presley was sworn in at Memphis Monday. After three days of processing here, the Army will decide where he will take his eight-week basic training.

Miami Plane Crash Toll Is Nine Killed, 15 Injured

Warden, Prisoners to Confer

All's Quiet After Ohio Pen Rioting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Warden Ralph W. Alvis set out today to learn why a dormitory of 140 "semi-trustees" started a shouting, burning, furniture-breaking demonstration that brought scores of police and firmen to Ohio Penitentiary Monday night.

It happened while guards, changing shifts, were checking to see that each prisoner was in his bed.

Warden Alvis said the prisoners complained that an unnamed guard pulled down the blankets, awakening them, instead of making a visual check. He had done it before, Alvis said they told him.

He said a prisoner jumped out of bed, shouting, and others followed suit. Apparently one took a swing at a guard, Alvis said, "and the guard retaliated."

What resulted, city police said, was a "small riot."

Fire Is Started

Alvis said neither guards nor prisoners were reported hurt. But some among the 140 men in the dormitory set fire to garbage in two barrels, broke the window of guard office doors, and smashed about eight of 12 tables used for writing and playing games, he added.

The Columbus Fire Department sent 11 pieces of equipment, including two ladder trucks, but firemen stayed outside the penitentiary's 32-foot high walls, which were surrounded by Ohio highway patrolmen, Franklin County sheriff's men, and all available Columbus policemen.

Ohio Penitentiary is close to the heart of downtown Columbus. The prisoners themselves put out the fire, the warden said. He indicated that damage probably wouldn't be more than $200.

The outbreak apparently began about 10:25 p.m., but Alvis said things had "quieted down some" when he entered the dormitory a few minutes later to talk with prisoners.

They asked an audience with him today, and their request was granted, Alvis said, adding: "I don't think they had that idea at first."

The men in that dormitory are "better class prisoners" who work in the commissary, dental clinic, prison offices, etc. Alvis explained. Many are old-timers, he said.

Other blocks got noisy, the warden said, but the disturbance did not spread.

"Naturally we can't condone what's happened," he continued. "We'll make a thorough investigation."

Ohio penitentiary has been the scene of two major fires. In the so-called "Easter Monday" fire and riot of April, 1950, a fire set by prisoners claimed 322 lives. Many prisoners perished in their cells when heat made the unlocking mechanisms unworkable.

In a Halloween fire and riot in October, 1952, one man died and damage was estimated at close to a million dollars.

New Street Data Given To Owners

EAST PALESTINE — City engineer, George S. Bloomgren, presented to property owners of the city's major subdivisions, the established basis for specifications for new streets during a special meeting of city council Monday night.

A Class A street, or arterial street, should be no less than 30 feet wide; a class B street, such as a cross street, should be 26 feet wide; and a class C street, a minor street, such as a dead-end street, should be 20 feet wide. An eight-inch base of gravel would be required before a top coating of cement or black-topping would be applied.

City council also agreed on the new policy of street work being done on the assessment basis. Mr. Bloomgren will draw up these plans in ordinance form to submit to the regular city council meeting on April 7 for further consideration.

11 Countians To Be Inducted In April

Eleven men from Columbiana County, 10 from Stark and five from Mahoning will be among 461 Ohioans that will be inducted into the Army in April. Some 726 men were drafted in last month and 848 were selected last month.

Opposition to Tax Cut Seen Gaining

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Anderson has indicated to leading members of Congress that opposition to a tax cut is increasing within the Eisenhower administration councils.

Anderson is reported to have told influential Democrats and Republicans Vice President Nixon did not speak for the administration when he said last week it would be "good Republican philosophy" to reduce taxes if the business recession continues.

Nixon conceded at the time no final decision is likely to be made by President Eisenhower until all the economic figures for March are available, sometimes around mid-April. But he said if those figures are disappointing, he believes a tax reduction offers the best chance of promoting a quick upturn.

However, Anderson was quoted as telling members of Congress in private conferences he believes a tax reduction would not be nearly as effective as Nixon predicts.

Anderson was represented as believing a stepup in public works and military spending already is beginning to show some results. Anderson's optimism apparently is based on indications that individual income tax receipts are holding up better than had been expected with more than five million persons unemployed.

Treasury experts give some of the credit to this overtime work ordered on military projects by Secretary of Defense McElroy at about the time the Senate Preparedness subcommittee began its investigation of the defense setup last fall.

Democratic congressional leaders have been operating under an informal agreement with Anderson to keep the defense program on a tight rein.

Mike Todd Funeral Set For Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—A short Hebrew funeral service for the noted movie producer and stage producer—following his expressed wishes—brought his remains to Waldheim Cemetery in suburban Forest Park. He had asked, they said, to be buried near his father Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen.

Survivors of the noted movie and stage producer—following his expressed wishes—brought his remains to Waldheim Cemetery in suburban Forest Park. He had asked, they said, to be buried near his father Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen.

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, Todd's widow, who did not use the plane berth provided for her, arrived in Chicago with several friends and Todd associates for the funeral.

Still numb from the air tragedy that took the lives of her producer-husband and three other persons last Saturday, the actress slept most of the way during the 5½ hour flight from Los Angeles.

Todd's remains arrived in Chicago by train earlier today. His son by the first of his three marriages, Mike Todd Jr., arrived from New York Monday night.

Panama-Bound Airliner Falls After Takeoff

Flames Follow Crash Into Swamp; 'Copter Rescues Survivors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Braniff Airlines plane crashed moments after its takeoff for Panama early today with a mighty explosion visible for miles. Nine were killed and 15 survived, many of them badly injured.

The four-engine DC7C had been airborne less than a minute before watchers on the ground saw fire spurt from an engine.

A night watchman on duty at a city dump near the swampy scene of the crash saw the plane go down "like a rock." It fell 4½ miles north of Miami International Airport.

The dead, dying and injured lay in the wreckage or in ankle-deep mud and water. Rescuers had to push their way through dense brush which kept firetrucks and ambulances away from the scene.

Helicopters were used to carry the injured to a hospital, where a parking lot was pressed into service as a landing port.

Plane Breaks In Two

The big plane, which would have gone to Lima, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro from Panama, broke cleanly in two. The engines and gas tanks landed about 50 yards from the rear section of the fuselage.

Flames still were roaring into the sky hours after the crash. Traffic was backed up for miles along roads leading to the area.

R. H. Sands, the dump watchman who summoned help but was prevented by the sawgrass and underbrush from forcing his way to the scene himself, said it was about 20 minutes before rescue crews arrived.

"Those were the longest 20 minutes I ever spent," he said. "I could hear the passengers yelling."

Three Men Are Likely Prospects For Solo Honors

Air Center Charting First Space Flight

Editor's Note—On the shoulders of three men rests much of the responsibility for getting an American into space alive. An AP writer who toured the hush-hush experimental center in New Mexico talked with the trio and, in a series of three articles, looks at the prospects and the problems ahead.

By STEVE LOWELL

ALAMOGORDON, N. M. (AP)—Red-haired Joe Kittinger may be the first American into space. At least he hopes so.

"If Col. Stapp said tomorrow that the system is ready, I would go. I only hope that they get it ready before I get too old to be considered."

Air Force Capt. Joseph Kittinger, 26, is one of three men who justly can be called space pioneers, even at this early stage of a new era.

The others are Col. John Paul Stapp, 47, and Lt. Col. David Simons, 35.

Stapp was dubbed "the fastest man on earth" in 1954 when he rode a rocket sled 632 miles an hour to test whether a human could stand the violent starts and stops necessary in space flight.

He now heads the Air Force missile center's aero-medical laboratory here. Next month he will be transferred to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, to head the aero-med lab there.

Won Fame in Balloon Flight

Lt. Col. Simons, just promoted from major, won fame last summer when he rode a balloon 102,000 feet into the air to study upper atmosphere. He is chief of the space biology branch of the laboratory. Both he and Col. Stapp are physicians.

Joe Kittinger, on the other hand, is a pilot. But his interest in flying goes a lot further than the wild blue yonder of a few years ago.

Kittinger has flown almost every type of plane, and not long before Simons' record breaker, soared 96,000 feet in a balloon as part of the man-high project to try to get some of the preliminary bugs out of space travel.

On the grounds of age, Kittinger at the moment would be most likely to be first into space.

All three pioneers agree that space is some time away. All three would like to be the first American to get there, but concede that there are more immediate problems to solve than who the first spaceman will be.

What will he be like? Let Col. Stapp describe him:

Must Be in Top Condition

"First, the man chosen must have a first-class nervous system and physique. He must have the motivation to be deeply interested in space research.

The involuntary nervous system which controls reactions to emotional stimuli would have to be in prime shape, he says, and the ductless glands would need to be in the best of condition so the body would be tough enough to resist extremes of shock, heat and cold.

The central nervous system should be superior in intelligence, stability and endurance.

"His mind must be able to function at intense levels of effort on complex problems for many hours at a time. He must not be easily frightened or emotionally disturbed.

"He should be able to tolerate isolation in solitary flight for long periods. . . .

"He must have tenacity of purpose. Adm. Richard Byrd would have made an ideal subject. Recall, he stayed in a cabin by himself for months on the forbidding Ross ice shelf in the Antarctic. He stayed so he could make observations for science. He went a long way to prove man could stay rational in such conditions."

Tomorrow: Showing the Way Into Space.

Reps. Hays, Ashley Conclude Ohio Wesleyan Political Forum

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—America's policies for defense and foreign affairs came under fire in closing sessions of Democratic Day at Ohio Wesleyan University Monday.

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio) charged that the Republican administration has been aware of Russian scientific progress for years, but failed to tell the people.

"When we lose, we're not competing, but when we win, we are," he continued. "We've got to compete with the Russians. We're great at competing and we can compete successfully. We're in an entirely new era of defense."

Warning against a foreign policy that is "all things to all people," Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) contended that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "has conducted American policy on a day-to-day basis as a crash program of placing sandbags here and there."

So-called "right-to-work" legislation is opposed by the Young Democrats of America, their national president, Nelson Lancione, said. He called it substitution of rule by the majority for rule by the minority.

Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, and William Coleman, state chairman, spoke earlier in the day.

A Republican Day was held on the campus Friday.

Body of Woman Found In Trunk of Car

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—A woman's frozen body was found in the trunk of a used car at nearby Boonsboro, Washington County, while a prospective buyer was looking it over.

Marshall McFillin of Martinsburg, W. Va., was inspecting the 1940 model automobile when he made the discovery.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Anna M. Harper, 51, Hagerstown, missing from home since March 8.

Dr. Samuel R. Wells, county medical examiner, attributed death to exposure.

Trooper Basore theorized Mrs. Harper had climbed in the trunk to keep warm.

MUST HOLD ASIA—Adm. Felix B. Stump, U.S. Pacific command, gestures as he appears before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington to urge approval of President Eisenhower's foreign aid program. He said, "I don't think the United States eventually can resist communism if we lose Asia." He added that "we can't hold it without aid," both economic and military.

Three Die When 'Copter Explodes

DETROIT (AP)—A helicopter exploded in the air over suburban Center Line Monday, killing the two passengers and the pilot. Cause of the explosion was unknown.

The wreckage of the craft plunged to the ground near a cement company. There were no other reported injuries.

The victims were Louis A. Garavaglia Jr., 40; his brother Julie, 28; and James Kennedy, 31, the pilot.

Louis was president and Julie vice president of the Louis Garavaglia Construction Co. Kennedy was a company pilot.

150 Courses Offered To Army Enlistees

A new program directed to high school seniors and recent graduates gives qualified applicants the choice of more than 150 technical courses before they enlist for the regular army, according to Sgt. Emuel Bosley, local Army recruiter.

If all requirements are met and a vacancy exists in one of the desired courses, the young man or woman applying will be signed up for an Army enlistment— with a written guarantee of class enrollment in hand.

The applicant is not obligated to enlist even after he or she has been accepted for the program. The decision to take the technical course is still his to make. If the applicant chooses to enlist, he goes into the Army with a career reservation.

A catalogue listing all of the courses is available at the local Army recruiting station located in the Post Office.

The station is open each Monday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Band To Practice Concert Selections

AMVETS PROPOSAL

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Amvets wants an increase in the pension rate for service-connected disabilities, but no increase for non-service-connected disabilities.

That's the report Monday by the group's national commander, S. J. Satullo of Cleveland, who told a reporter, "We're citizens first and veterans second." Satullo was here to address an Amvets dinner.

Slayer of 2 Women Found Suicide Victim

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—A statewide search has ended with the discovery of the body of Sylvanus Daulton, a former town marshal sought in the kidnap-slaying of two Scioto County women.

He was found Monday, shot to death, by Sheriff Eugene Fulton of Adams County. Officials said he killed himself.

Sheriff J. Arthur Shuman of Clark County said Daulton apparently spent Sunday night with a nephew. The latter apparently did not know the 53-year-old former marshal of Rarden was wanted in connection with the kidnap-slaying of Mrs. Florence Hoffer, 51, and her daughter, Margaret Louise, 18.

They disappeared Friday morning, reportedly in Daulton's car. Their bodies were discovered near a vacant farmhouse 15 miles from West Union (Adams County) Sunday by an Ohio State geology student hunting for rock specimens. Both had been shot in the head.

Sheriff Fulton found Daulton's body on the ground near the intersection of Ohio 124 and 134, near the Highland-Clinton County line.

Clark County deputies said Mrs. Weaver Bracken of near Springfield told them Daulton, who was her brother, visited her Sunday, then went to spend the night with one of her sons. He reappeared Monday and asked her husband to drive him to the intersection, she said.

When her husband returned, Mrs. Bracken said, they learned that Daulton was the object of a statewide hunt and notified Sheriff Shuman.

Fulton said Daulton apparently left no note.

He said the pistol with which Daulton shot himself was not the same one used to kill the Hoffers. He said it was determined that Daulton had been carrying both a .38 caliber pistol and a .25 caliber weapon.

The Politics of Uncertainty

Meade Alcorn, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has laid down the general specifications of the political issue that inevitably must grow out of the recession. He believes his party will develop the issue in this direction—the need for a closer working partnership between government and private initiative, because private initiative is the source of all gainful employment and productive wealth.

The Democratic party, he believes, will see in the "hard-times" issue the opportunity it exploited successfully in the '30s. It will exaggerate all the statistical evidence and make the most of the emotional disturbance to discredit the Republican party.

By so doing, it will conceal again, as it concealed on the previous occasion when it exploited economic dissatisfaction, its own failure to take action and its own factionalism.

This is a perfectly normal reaction in partisan politics. There is nothing in the least wrong with it. Both parties have the right and the obligation to exploit the opposition's misfortunes.

As it happens, the Republican party does not exploit business recessions, because it is essentially a party of conservatism. Its favorite issue against the Democratic party is recklessness in public expenditures and tional affairs the cynical practices of their tendency of Democrats to reflect in nabit-city strongholds.

The Republican position, therefore, should be, in Chairman Alcorn's view, to encourage and simulate private initiative and to oppose the opposition's attempt to halt the recession with deficit spending.

It is immediately obvious that the Republican position also is the position of many conservative Democrats. It is just as obvious that the Democratic position is shared by those Republicans who have embraced the theory that ever-wider distribution of public wealth through the federal government is the solution to all problems.

The two parties will have to hammer out in this year's congressional elections the terms of their partisanship on what now seems likely to be the dominant issue of 1958.

They will have to make their records in the day-to-day exchange of viewpoints in public debate and in their voting positions on proposals in Congress.

Their leaders will have to discover in the politics of uncertainty the places where they can rally their forces and join issues successfully. This is how two-party government works. This is the way it is supposed to work.

There has been no reluctance on the part of leading Democrats to make their intention clear. They intend to exploit unemployment and the recession to the hilt. Within their party, the struggle for supremacy between the faction represented by former President Truman and the faction represented by Sen. Byrd already has been settled in favor of Mr. Truman.

Within the Republican party, the struggle between the conservatives and those who have tried to cut the ground from under conservatism by adopting the ideas of the opposition has not been settled.

Chairman Alcorn, it may turn out, has issued the first official call for settlement.

A Case For the Psychiatrists

There is one state of mind in a period of unemployment that needs the attention of psychiatrists far more than the attention of the economists, statisticians and politicians who try to explain what is going on.

It is the state of mind that welcomes unemployment as proof of some vague plot afoot in the United States. It makes unemployment

Demonstrated Faith

Members of the First Christian Church will have a joyous celebration come March, 1959, for at that time they expect to be in their new church on E. Sixth St.

That date also will mark the 100th anniversary of the congregation which was founded March 15, 1859.

Announcement yesterday that ground would be broken for a new, attractive house of worship within the next six weeks culminated three years of efforts on the part of the church's official board and committee members. Two successful fund drives in that period have been answers to the fervent prayers of the congregation that a new church building could be erected to accommodate a rapidly increasing membership.

Denomination statistics show that the local church has experienced the greatest growth of any Christian church in Ohio. Gifts of tithes and offerings have increased 800 per cent in the past four years, 375 new members have been taken in and Bible school and church worship attendance is at an all-time high.

Members of the First Christian church and their minister, the Rev. Harold W. Deitch, have demonstrated their faith in Almighty God and a desire to add to the religious strength of the community through their building program.

Once Over

The Supreme Court, making it harder to follow than ever, has come out with a photo-finish. It hauled down a four-to-four tie in an appeal from a lower court ruling that Jack Benny was guilty of plagiarism in filming a TV parody of "Gaslight," a drama of the Victorian era. The lower court said a parody or burlesque of any book, poem or play is often no different than any other form of plagiarism.

Since actors, sketch writers, etc., have been doing this for centuries, it has them dizzy. Burlesquing of legitimate dramas has been going on in revues without protest for generations, with authors taking them in good humor.

JUSTICE WILLIAM DOUGLAS, who could have broken a tie, refrained from voting, despite the fact he asked for a special showing of the Benny film. Question why he went out of his way to see it and then wouldn't say yes or no is a mystery, unless he thought Jack Benny has had enough free publicity or likes Benny's violin playing.

Other guesses are: (1) He wants to stay neutral in matter of TV opinions; (2) he couldn't decide whether a Jack Benny program or the lower court decision was the funnier; (3) the show put him to sleep and no jurist should be asked to stand a second run.

Jack Benny is reported baffled and getting no help from script writers or Rochester. It's the first time in his career in which the reviewers of a Benny act gave him no better than a draw and demanded a play-off.

His lawyers said there was no plagiarism. The play's author and Metro's lawyers said there was. The best Jack could get was the split decision, with one justice a late scratch.

There's but one way out, Jack. Bet the lawyers for both sides to agree to get the sem to be a negative form of glad tidings. People affected by this bitter upside-down viewpoint get savage enjoyment out of talking about their despair. To them it seems to clinch the damning evidence they have been storing up against the country that has been good to them.

They want it to fail, to vindicate their dark belief that it is foredoomed to failure. They are like the "fellow travelers" of the Communist party in the '20s and '30s who swallowed the doctrine that American was ticketed for disaster and welcomed a chance to contribute to its downfall.

They are men and women of small faith and faith and gargantuan persecution complexes. They are willing to go along for the ride but refuse to get out and push if anything goes wrong. They chortle that they knew all the time something was going to go wrong and are glad it did, because it proved they had special insight.

They are being heard from again now, as they have been heard from before. They are chortling and reminding everybody within ear-shot that they knew it all the time.

No doubt, some of them will be thinking about joining the Communist party, to recant and come forth in some future time as martyrs who survived the burning and are ready to tell about it at so much a word.

Those who stop short of that extreme might as well go the whole way, if they are unwilling to show a modicum of faith and confidence in the potentialities of a country that has done so well by its citizens that anything less than the best shapes up as failure.

Fortunately, most Americans still know how to get out and push. When things get rolling again at top speed, the chortling of their fellow citizens who knew all the time there was going to be trouble will be just a sour echo.

By H. I. Phillips

lower court proceedings set to music, with you playing them on the violin before the Supreme Court of U.S.

SINCE THE VANGUARD got into orbit on St. Patrick's Birthday why not call it the "PATNIK?"

One of New York's gamest citizens, Ben Duffy, famed advertising man, got a well deserved tribute when 1,000 gathered at a luncheon at which he got a gold medal award. Ben was stricken nearly two years ago but made a gallant fight and has regained his health. He started with B.B.D.O. as office boy and became the agency's chief.

We know a fellow who is such a pessimist he sold both American satellites short and wants a quarterly report on their orbits before he makes up his mind on the third. Arthur Godfrey thinks adult westerns may cause eastern delinquents.

To those who saw Walter Huston in the original play, Burl Ives is almost comic in Hollywood's "Desire Under the Elms." Ives is a talented performer but in no way suggests the hard, taut, stern character of Ephraim Cabot, rugged New England farmer, as painted by O'Neill and as played by Huston. Burl Ives makes it seem like "Desire Under the Folk Songs."

Top American songwriters, noted for wonderful melodies, have charged before Congress that under airwave controls much of the music dished out is hillbilly stuff. Southern legislators have leaped to the ramps with a denunciation of this as a gratuitous insult to folk music. This is pretty ridiculous. True folk music is okay, as is some genuine hillbilly music. But much of this music pumped from the airwaves is largely without quality or melody. Most of it is written by amateurs who have never been farther south than the Bronx or Brooklyn.

Hoping It Goes Into Orbit

Types of Heroes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Will the egg head become America's new national hero?

There are those who feel that the arrival of the space age has elevated the egghead to a new stature. They are hopeful that the vicories of science, in test tube and rocket will win a new respect for education and a decline in antiintellectualism in the United States.

It is hard to go along with this optimism. It is certainly, at the moment, premature. As a nation, we still pick our heroes and heroines on the basis of charm or brawn, not brainpower. We admire the obvious; we distrust the subtle.

We reward our national heroes with cash and glory, in most cases; not on the basis of how they have helped out advancement as a people—but how they have pleased our emotions individually. The real heroes of our passing generations are often relatively unknown by the general public in their time.

Everybody knows who is supposed to have jumped off Brooklyn Bridge—Steve Brodie! How many can name the designer and builder of Brooklyn Bridge, one of the loveliest structures ever conceived by the mind of man?

You can measure a culture by the heroes it produces. America has made tremendous strides culturally in almost every field in the 20th century. This great growth is recognized by intellectuals of other lands, but the Americans they would honor as heroes are little known or not known at all to millions of Americans.

We have created a great science, yet how few ordinary citizens can even name three living American scientists? How many can name two leading American architects? How many can name four living American poets, five novelists, three native-born opera singers, or even one top American composer?

Of our population of 173,000,000 only a handful can. We are one of the most politically minded people on earth. Politics has always been one of our major sports. Yet how many of us can spontaneously name and identify a dozen U.S. senators and the states they come from? How many of us can even name the U.S. representative in Congress from our own district?

Who, then, are our heroes? Well, ask the average American to name five famous movie stars, five famous heavyweight boxing champions, five great baseball players, five outstanding television performers. He'll pass this quiz with a perfect score.

Then ask him to identify Elvis Presley, and name the present Chief Justice of the United States. The odds are he'll know all about Elvis, but have forgotten Earl Warren.

In our civilization the egghead, if he is ever to be a hero, is likely to be a post-mortem one. Most of us have a secret fear of a live intellectual and prefer to admire him after he is comfortably dead. Only then does he seem safe on a pedestal.

But there's at least one silver lining. Others besides the U. S. Treasury have benefited from the 52 per cent tax rate on business and the sliding scale on individuals.

Charity is deductible and so are gifts to educational institutions. Many business executives are more generous with gifts that cost only 48 cents on the dollar.

Unemployment Believed Leveling Off

Has the "bottom" of the recession just been reached? The U.S. department of Labor reports that the number of workers laid off and applying for unemployment benefits dropped 29,000—to 410,500—and that the volume of new claims was lower in the week March 10 to March 15 than for any week since last December.

This would seem to indicate a leveling off. The total number drawing unemployment benefits for more than a week's time declined by 7,600.

Thirty different states reported fewer claims for the week ending March 15. Twenty-eight states had reported a decline in applications for the week ending March 8.

The largest declines were in New York with 9,300, Michigan with 9,200, Wisconsin with 8,100 and Minnesota with 3,300. The increases included Indiana with 3,600; Texas with 3,200 and Illinois with 2,300. Temporary layoffs in various industries accounted for many of the requests for unemployment insurance.

These declines on the whole are not large and they are offset to some extent by increases in other states. But the over-all picture begins to look as there is a certain steadiness about the unemployment chart.

RECESSIONS do not turn abruptly into booms and it is possible for a spot check here and there to still reveal some increases in unemployment. Thus the Associated Press sampled 12 areas and found that unemployment had increased by about 150,000 from the middle of February to the middle of March.

If, however, the figures remain at about the same level for another few weeks, it will confirm the growing belief that the "bottom" was actually reached during the week of March 10 to March 15.

It would be unwise for governmental policy to be based on the figures available thus far. President Eisenhower and his advisers have been saying all along that a better idea of what has been happening would be available when all March figures are at hand and this will not be until the middle of April.

There is a natural caution here about rushing in to grant tax reductions on a large scale or to set in motion any partial suspension of tax receipts.

Right vs. Wrong

By TRUMAN TWILL

Humor in the news from Washington is as rare as the stuffing in a Martini olive. But a mighty guffaw went up a few days ago when a congressman named Charles A. Wolvorton, representing New Jersey's 1st district, unexpectedly took a prat-fall over his own correspondence.

As one of the members of the oddly-named subcommittee on legislative oversight, Rep. Wolvorton had been mustered—plastering fellow citizens for suggesting to the Federal Communications Commission that it should take thus and so into consideration before making multi-million-dollar decisions.

The representative was apparently a loyal member of a group of enchanted disciples of the Blue Fairy who believe public business is carried on by some kind of an electronic brain that is impervious to human suggestion. He had been making that kind of an impression.

The guffaw went up when a witness before the subcommittee, Paul A. Porter, formerly head of the FCC, himself, produced from official files a letter written by Rep. Wolvorton urging the FCC to shake a leg in behalf of one of his own New Jersey constituents.

Porter explained that his idea was not to suggest that Rep. Wolvorton had done anything wrong but to suggest that he had been over-eager to make it appear that what once had been right for him now was wrong for everybody else. As it happened, a Porter client was under committee criticism for having taken steps to apprise FCC members of the virtue of his claim to a television channel license.

It's the same old story. If you do it, you are acting in behalf of all that is holy. If the other fellow does it, he is an agent of darkness.

When you refuse to go by the book, you have an open mind. If the other fellow does it, he is kicking over the traces and inviting disaster.

If you bury your cash reserves in a can in the back yard, you are being prudent. If the other fellow does it, he is a tightwad.

When you blow your top, it is righteous indignation and a high time someone said something in behalf of common sense. When the other fellow blows his top, he is making a fool of himself and shooting off his mouth.

If you yank your kids around, you are showing them who's boss and instilling discipline. If the other fellow yanks his kids around, he is a savage brute who doesn't deserve to be a parent.

If you stand up for your rights, you are being faithful to the tradi-

Democratic leaders and the administration have a sort of truce in effect so that neither side will take the initiative but will await a bi-partisan conference at a time yet to be fixed.

ON THE SURFACE this looks as if there is a good deal of high-mindedness and statesmanship surrounding the issue. But the fact is it is rather an example of shrewdness and political prudence on each side. For, since the federal treasury is going to experience a heavy deficit, neither party wants to take the political responsibility for plunging the government into a 10 or 15-billion-dollar red figure.

Once the Eisenhower administration gives the signal for tax reduction, the Democrats will offer their own plans but they want the executive branch to say publicly it is ready for tax reduction. For this would be giving sanction to a budget deficit of large size.

Just what kind of tax revision is in prospect cannot be forecast now, except that the nation may expect a political makeshift. Such plans are those just advanced by the committee on economic development in New York last week would not have a ghost of a chance.

A MAJORITY of the members of Congress would never vote for a ninemonth suspension of taxes. To grant a 20 per cent reduction and then take it away in less than a year is politically absurd.

What seems more likely is that the administration will come out in favor of a constructive plan for tax revision which looks toward lower taxes not just for the emergency period but as a part of a long-range attempt to stabilize the value of the dollar.

There is much merit in the plan because, once the boom returns, tax receipts will grow and, if there is a continuing deficit, the pressure for cutting expenses will then be resumed. This would be a healthy development.

Some of the Democratic politicians, on the other hand, will urge big decreases for the low-income groups. They cannot get such proposals adopted without conceding some reductions in the higher brackets and in corporation taxes. The final bill will be a compromise between the two points of view in Congress—the radicals and the conservatives—in both parties.

On the whole, however, the national economy seems to be weathering the storm without the need for the enactment of fanciful programs and unsound tax measures.

The New York Herald Tribune

tions of a free country. If the other fellow stands up for his rights, he is being a stubborn, irresponsible obstacle to progress—a law-defier, no less.

When you balance your own budget, you are being a prudent, far-sighted citizen. When the other fellow balances his budget, he is a tight-fisted gnom who puts money ahead of human needs.

When you drive your automobile at a merry clip, you are merely trying to make sure you are not clogging traffic. When the other fellow does it, he is a reckless hot-rodder whose car should be equipped by law with a governor.

It may be some time before another congressman blasts off against the horrible practice of making certain his constituents get a fair shake in a case pending before one of the federal regulatory commissions. The files must be full of laugh-provokers.

Non-Stop Trip to Moon Via Nuclear Rocket Envisioned by Year 1970

The advent of controlled nuclear energy may make it possible for men to stage nonstop, surface-to-surface flights between the earth and the moon as early as 1970, says Krafft A. Ehrliche, assistant to the technical director of Convair (Astronautics) Divisions of General Dynamics Corporation. Speaking to the Air Force Association, Ehrliche presented preliminary designs for a 200-foot, 90-ton, two-stage chemo-nuclear vehicle that he said would be capable of landing a 15,000-pound payload on the moon. It would have sufficient fuel left to take off and return to a position just outside the earth's atmosphere. Ehrliche's first stage is a delta-wing glider of 90-foot span (left, above), powered with conventional gasoline and liquid oxygen rockets developing 2,700,000 pounds of thrust. It would return to earth after boosting manned second stage beyond the earth's atmosphere. Power for second stage is provided by feeding liquid oxygen to a rocket engine that has a nuclear pile as its energy source. To protect from radiation crewmen's gondola would be attached to steel or tungsten towing cables 1,000 feet (center, above) from nuclear engine. Crew would then use remote controls to start the power plant. At end of earth-to-moon flight (right, above), the rocket is "backed down" by using light thrust to counter lunar gravity. Microwave radio would be used to communicate with earth, which is pictured as it would appear from the moon. Crew would transfer to re-entry glider at edge of earth's atmosphere to complete round trip.

Lisbon Mayor Chooses Committee, New Chief

LISBON — Mayor John Todd appointed a swimming pool committee for coming year of G. Cecil Rauch, Adam Rudibaugh, Charles Pike and Councilman John Blockson at a meeting held Monday evening by city council.

He also appointed George Porter as fire chief. He has been acting chief since former chief Thirflugan's appointment as street commissioner.

Council authorized the salary of the Street Commissioner to be $4,200 per year.

Council authorized the grading and improvement of Cedar and Oak Streets.

They are the only streets leading to the Sadie VanFossan swimming pool. Estimated costs of the grading will be $250.

Mail Box

A drive-in mail box location was discussed. They will check with the state highway department to see if it can be placed on a state highway.

Council authorized a free parking space for Rev. Paul T. Gerard along side of the Presbyterian Church. They also ordered fire hydrants (pumper type) at the request of the Board of Public Affairs at an estimated cost of $260 each.

E. G. Heilbroner will check all village equipment with an insurance agent. He will report back to council at the next meeting.

A discussion was held on a village owned storage garage, being placed north of the village building. Council will contact persons interested in having the building removed to see what arrangements can be worked out.

Parking Meter

The better business bureau donated a parking meter violation box which will be placed near the front of village hall for people cited for overtime parking.

Council advised that they have nothing further on the side walk for Thomas Road.

Council told Flugan to check Sherman St. for deep ruts where the gas company has laid new lines. They told him he should either repair it or contact the gas company and have them do it.

Thinking It Over--For Lent

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)

The spiritual significance of Lent is centered around the sacrifice of Christ. During this time we emphasize self-sacrifice in order to partake in a small way of the experience of the Master. If this experience is to be important we must do more than merely deprive ourselves of candy or entertainment.

To really feel even a portion of Christ's sacrifice, we should have to go without food and sleep while working long hours. This work would have to be done under the pressure of physical fatigue, mental stress and emotional turmoil. We could not bear even a portion of His strain.

We cannot begin to minister as Christ was able to do. Yet we can serve others to the limits of our human abilities. We can do our daily tasks sincerely and honestly. We can utilize our other waking moments in prayer and in easing the burdens of neighbors while we constantly bear witness for our Saviour.

Bill Before Senate Aimed At Speeding Road Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said today the highway construction speed-up bill now before the Senate will constitute "a major step toward putting America back to work."

But he added in a prepared Senate speech that the immediate economic benefit he said it will provide is not the only reason for its enactment.

"This is a bill for the building of roads," he said. "The funds authorized in this bill are a sound investment in the future of America—an investment which will pay ever-increasing dividends in the years ahead."

By increasing and advancing allotments, the bill would make available to the states this year 1 1/2 billion dollars more in federal funds than presently programmed.

Gore, chief sponsor of the legislation, said this would result in a $5,400,000,000 highway construction program this year, including the matching state funds.

He said one new feature of the bill could mean that dirt would be flying 60 days after its enactment. This is a supplementary allotment of 400 million dollars in federal money for the year ahead for the primary, secondary and urban road systems. This special fund would have to be matched by the states only on a 70-30 basis, instead of the usual 50-50, and the states could borrow from federal funds two thirds of the 30 per cent.

Gore said also that new funds in the bill for the 41,000-mile superhighway network now under construction would put it back close to the original 13-year schedule. Under the present program, it would be stretched out to as much as 24 years.

There appeared to be little controversy in the Senate over the desirability of accelerating highway construction this year. Estimates are that the extra funds will provide at least 88,000 new jobs this year.

But Sen. Bush (R-Conn.), in testimony prepared for the House Public Works Committee, said he had "serious reservations about the wisdom of hasty action on so large an addition" to the highway program as Gore proposes.

"I would prefer that priority be given to school construction, which I regard as a far more urgent national need," he said.

"I carried one man out to the road and then I came back and called out for the survivors. They heard me and yelled, 'Please help us. We're hurt bad.'"

Pete Vigna, 67, Civil Aeronautics Administration official returning to his job in Colombia, suffered only a cut ear.

"The plane was running good until it hit about 1,500 feet," Vigna said. "All of a sudden, the engine next to the fuselage on the right sputtered fire."

"The next thing I knew, the world had fallen out beneath me. I found myself tumbling inside the plane, falling every which way."

THE ELEPHANT WHO FORGOT

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a pretty square pachyderm who couldn't even remember his own name—which was Sam. He was so ashamed of his memory he wanted to die—but he couldn't remember the way to the elephant's graveyard. One day a few friends happened to thunder in around cocktail time and saw his new Mercury.

A huge trade-in made it a buy he'll never forget. It's more than six elephants big and costs only $1.20 more per month than a "low-price 3" car.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel
Civil Liberties Union.

For a week now, I've had a cool document in my hot little fist and have shoved it at labor leaders who've talked about how dreadful the racketeers are and how something should be done about it.

The reaction to proposals of this type from such groups as the ACLU can be summed up in what Al Hayes, head of the Machinists Union and chairman of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, said out at the University of California last week:

"We do feel that the McClellan hearings have created an irrational climate which does not make for objective comment or consideration. Some of the proposals that are being made — by intellectuals, as well as management — bear this out.

"We expect certain groups to advocate laws which will alter the nature of the trade union movement. And we know that they will seize upon isolated instances of personal corruption as reason enough to fasten the statutory open shop and stringent government regulation on unions.

"BUT WHEN intellectuals become so confused that they, too, want the labor movement put under government supervision, we know for sure — what we have long suspected — that text books and a Ph.D. in industrial relations do not lead to understanding of the labor movement — that a Phi Beta Kappa key is not the key to solutions of practical problems in day-to-day union administration.

"I suppose, though, that what many of us in the labor movement really resent most, is the implication — contained in so many articles in academic journals — that union members and officers are no longer capable of running their unions. The inference is that workers need intellectuals and government officials to tell them how to run their unions. Well, I don't believe it."

Thus the criticism from left of center is rejected by the honorable men of labor as swiftly as the criticism of the right.

AL HAYES knows well his labor movement. Labor men I've spoken to in this state all take the same refrain. They do not want any outside force — government or public — to assume any management prerogatives inside their unions. This will be the position of the national labor chiefs when they finally testify before the Senate subcommittee on labor.

The committee is headed by Sen. John Kennedy, certainly a friend of the honest labor leaders with whom he has constantly exchanged views.

Hearings will open this week on the President's proposals. Sen. William Knowland's bill and a number of others aimed at fighting racketeers — including John Kennedy's own.

Labor's position will be — no interference from any outside force. We'll clean up.

can Arbitration Assn., state mediation bodies, or the like."

THE DOCUMENT was dispatched to George Meany and all the AFL-CIO's international union presidents. It was publicized, not to embarrass the labor movement but to stimulate constructive public thinking on this issue.

The reaction to proposals of this type from such groups as the ACLU can be summed up in what Al Hayes, head of the Machinists Union and chairman of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, said out at the University of California last week:

"We do feel that the McClellan hearings have created an irrational climate which does not make for objective comment or consideration. Some of the proposals that are being made — by intellectuals, as well as management — bear this out.

"We expect certain groups to advocate laws which will alter the nature of the trade union movement. And we know that they will seize upon isolated instances of personal corruption as reason enough to fasten the statutory open shop and stringent government regulation on unions.

"BUT WHEN intellectuals become so confused that they, too, want the labor movement put under government supervision, we know for sure — what we have long suspected — that text books and a Ph.D. in industrial relations do not lead to understanding of the labor movement — that a Phi Beta Kappa key is not the key to solutions of practical problems in day-to-day union administration.

"I suppose, though, that what many of us in the labor movement really resent most, is the implication — contained in so many articles in academic journals — that union members and officers are no longer capable of running their unions. The inference is that workers need intellectuals and government officials to tell them how to run their unions. Well, I don't believe it."

Thus the criticism from left of center is rejected by the honorable men of labor as swiftly as the criticism of the right.

AL HAYES knows well his labor movement. Labor men I've spoken to in this state all take the same refrain. They do not want any outside force — government or public — to assume any management prerogatives inside their unions. This will be the position of the national labor chiefs when they finally testify before the Senate subcommittee on labor.

The committee is headed by Sen. John Kennedy, certainly a friend of the honest labor leaders with whom he has constantly exchanged views.

Hearings will open this week on the President's proposals. Sen. William Knowland's bill and a number of others aimed at fighting racketeers — including John Kennedy's own.

Labor's position will be — no interference from any outside force. We'll clean up.

Average Person Reads No Faster Than Sixth Grader

PHILADELPHIA — The average American can't read a bit faster now than he could in the sixth grade, an expert in the field said today.

When he finishes grade school the average child can read about 200 words a minute. And there he stops.

Dr. Nila Banton Smith, director of the reading clinic at New York University, said in an interview that reading courses should be required right through the 12th grade. Students should be reading at least 600 words per minute at graduation, she said. Exceptionally gifted students could boost that rate to 1,000 words.

At NYU, most of Dr. Smith's students are business executives. "In 14 two-hour sessions we are usually able to treble their reading speed," she said. "They not only learn to read faster, they learn to understand what they're reading. The same thing could be done, and should be done, for all our high school students."

Dr. Smith, attending the annual convention of elementary school principals, doesn't feel that much more can or should be done in the first six grades.

"Pressure to increase reading speed probably would be bad for grade school children," she said. "But it seems silly to teach reading through the first six grades, and think that those skills are going to be enough for high school and college work."

Robinson Seeks to Retain Title; Never Beaten By Same Man Twice

CHICAGO (P)—After a week of rather unusual preflight shenanigans, crowding Carmen Basilio risks his middleweight title against aging but still artistic Sugar Ray Robinson tonight in Chicago Stadium.

The rematch, six months after the 30-year-old Basilio gained a split 15-round decision over Robinson in New York, will be on closed circuit television in 38 states with the Chicago area blacked out and on radio nationally (CBS) with Chicago cut in on the broadcast.

Fight time is 11 p.m., EST. Robinson, 37, will be attempting to regain the 160-pound crown for the fourth time. He never has been beaten twice by the same fighter. Whereas the Harlem Dandy has found Chicago Stadium to his liking in the past, Basilio has found it a jinx.

Robinson first won the title in the big West Side arena, successfully defended it there and twice recaptured it there. Basilio lost to Chuck Davey, Billy Graham and Johnny Saxton in the only fights he has had in Chicago and has claimed unfair decisions in all but the Graham bout.

Robinson's record: 140 wins, 6 defeats, 2 draws. He won 91 of his fights by knockouts.

Basilio's record: won 52; lost 7; 7 draws, 25 wins by knockouts. The gate is expected to be about $400,000. TV proceeds will be about $300,000 and radio $30,000. Basilio and Robinson will each receive 30 per cent slices of everything.

The champion remained a solid 8-5 betting choice. Different reports on the odds. George Gairford's charges of chloroform in Basilio's cut lotion in the last bout, Robinson's indecision on what gym to use in workouts, Sugar Ray's reported denied weight battle, Basilio's coo-like retreat from the public in training—all these have added up to considerable tomfoolery for a fight of this stature.

Montreal Sweeps Honors In NHL

MONTREAL (P)—The Montreal Canadiens, who ran away with the National Hockey League championship during the regular season, swept everything else in sight as they captured all major individual titles.

Final statistics released by the league today officially gave Dick Moore the league's scoring title with 84 points. He also was the league's top goal producer with 36. Henri Richard led in assists with 52 and was second in scoring with 80 points.

Goalie Jacques Plante of the Canadiens retained goal-tending honors to again capture the Vezina trophy. The award goes to the goalie playing the most games with the team least scored upon. Montreal gave up 158 goals, 30 less than the Rangers, who were next with 188 against.

Gonzales Takes 22-21 Lead Over Lew Hoad

They play tonight in St. Louis.

Milwaukee Is Worried Over Juan Pizarro

BRADENTON, Fla. (P)—The Milwaukee Braves, blessed with dependable Warren Spahn, are expressing concern about their other southpaw—young Juan Pizarro.

The young Puerto Rican was the pitching sensation of Caribbean winter baseball, but he has disappointed the Milwaukee club with his spring pitching.

The Braves hint that Pizarro could be sent to the minors even though the recent departure of Vic Rehm to the Wichita farm club leaves Juan as the Braves' only lefthander besides Spahn.

"Pizarro's chief trouble is control," said Manager Fred Haney Monday. "He certainly has shown us plenty of stuff—fast ball, curve and changeup."

Pizarro leads the pitchers with 10 strikeouts, but he has a weak 8.10 earned run average. He has allowed 13 hits, 11 runs and nine walks in 10 innings. No one else on the team has allowed as many hits and walks.

The next shoot will be a novelty shoot, which will be a combination of offhand, bench rest and pistol. It will be Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at the range.

All local and area shooters are invited to attend.

Forty meetings will be held during 1958 at the nation's 33 pari-mutuel harness racing tracks.

Baylor May Turn Pro Next Season

WASHINGTON (P)—Elgin Baylor, Seattle's sizzling shooter, may pass up a final year of college basketball to join the professional ranks.

The West Coast All America said he hasn't made up his mind but will announce his decision by next Monday.

He said he is considering joining the pros because of "personal reasons." He declined to elaborate. The 22-year-old junior is here on a visit to his parents.

Baylor's height, agility and scoring ability have made him one of the finest players in Far West history. He led Seattle into Saturday's NCAA finals at Louisville, Ky., after pacing the Chieftains with more than 800 points in regular season play.

Kentucky beat Seattle 84-72 for the championship, but Baylor was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Narleski May Stay With Cleveland

TUCSON, Ariz. (P)—Cleveland Indians' General Manager Frank Lane has been trying to obtain second baseman Bobby Richardson from the New York Yankees in a trade involving Tribe right-hander Ray Narleski. But he says the pitting situation is now so grave that he doubts that he would make the trade without getting an established pitcher in the deal.

"I'd rather have Narleski pitching than Billy Moran playing second than have Bobby Richardson at second and some humpty-dumpty pitching," Lane says.

"Maybee we worried too much about beating the Yankees and

Senator's Sievers Still Immobilized With Bad Leg

By The Associated Press
Washington's Roy Sievers, the American League's home run and RBI king, is still immobilized.

Sievers, who rapped 42 homers and knocked in 114 runs last season, was hit in the leg by a batted ball March 12, suffering a bruise. He played in three games, wound up pulling a muscle and has been idle since.

The Washington slugger admits the leg still hurts. Although he has been taking a regular turn in the batting cage, he has been cautioned by trainer George Lentz not to risk playing for another three or four days.

With Washington idled by rain Monday, Senators' Manager Cookie Lavagetto had time for thought and used it to realign his outfield.

Lavagetto, who even has used third baseman Harmon Killebrew as a fly chaser, said Sievers will take over in left field when he returns. Rookie Albie Pearson has virtually clinched center field and Jim Lemon will hold down right backed by rookie Neil Chrissy.

Two games escaped the weather.

Chicago's Cubs laced Cleveland pitching for a 13-8 victory and Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 4-3.

Cub shortstop Ernie Banks drove in five runs with a homer, his seventh this spring, and a pair of doubles. Sixteen men batted around in the first inning as Chicago stormed to 12 runs against starter Don Mossi and successors Don Schaeffer and Hal Woodeshick.

Glen Hobbie picked up the win, although the Indians came up with five runs against him in the sixth.

The Redlegs bounced four of their nine hits in the sixth inning and tallied three times for the victory. Pitcher Charley Rabe singled home two runs and Buddy Gilbert singled to knock in the final run. The Phillies got home runs from rookies Pancho Herrera and Chuck Essegian.

San Francisco's Giants sold infielder Foster Castleman to the Baltimore Orioles. The 27-year-old Castleman went for "something in excess of the $20,000 waiver price."

Jack Tighe Says Tigers Have Potential With New Players

LAKELAND, Fla. (P)—It is spring again in Tigertown where pennants bloom each March. Manager Jack Tighe says the "big switch" of Billy Martin and Harvey Kuenn is working out. Even 37-year-old Jim Hegan talks of catching 100 or 125 games.

"The Yankees will have a tiger by the tail this summer," reports one loyal Detroit subject. "The Tigers will be lucky to finish fourth," claims one cynical observer.

Just for the record, the Tigers finished fourth last year, 20 games behind New York and only 1½ games out of sixth place. Fourth in batting, fourth in pitching with many key men in sub-par seasons, they probably ended up right where they belonged.

Tighe talks about "potential" and points to new men like Martin, Hegan, Gus Zernial and Lou Skizas when he says, "We think we have helped ourselves."

The manager has reason to expect improved performances from Frank Lary, Billy Hoelt, Charlie Maxwell, Al Kaline and Kuenn. Lary slipped from a 21-13 record to 11-16 and Hoelt from 20-14 to 9-11. Maxwell dropped off 50 points to 276 and Kuenn fell 55 points to 277. Although Kaline led the club at .295 he has lost 45 points over a two-year span since he won the batting title with .340 in 1955.

Trades since the close of the season brought Martin, Zernial, Skizas and Tim Thompson, Tom Morgan and Maury McDermott, Kansas City, Hegan and Hank Aguirre from Cleveland, Gail Harris from San Francisco, Bill Taylor from Minneapolis and Jim Greengrass from Sacramento.

"Maybee we worried too much about beating the Yankees and

Mr. Basketball Contest Planned

A Mr. Basketball Sr. and Mr. Basketball Jr. will be determined during the week of March 31 to April 4, Rusty Tomlinson, assistant manager of the Memorial Building, revealed today.

The program consists of 3-man teams playing one-half the court. Players will be assigned to teams with squad personnel changing after each game. Mr. Basketball will be determined in each division by a point system. The two boys in each division with the most points will be declared the winner.

Two points will be awarded each member of a winning team and one point to a player on a losing squad. One-half point is credited to a player even though his team loses by forfeit.

One division will be made up of Junior and Senior High School students who will play from 1 to 4 p.m. each day. The Sixth Grade, and under, division will play from 9:30 to 12 noon each day. Boys over 13 by April 4 are ineligible for this division.

Golden Glove Champ Undecided On Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Hodge, the Olympic wrestler turned boxer, today had both the national Golden Gloves heavyweight championship and a problem: whether to turn pro or aim for an unprecedented boxing-wrestling double in the 1960 Olympics.

"Gosh, I don't know what I'm going to do," said the 25-year old Wichita, Kan., strongman after he stopped Washington's Charley Hood in 2:34 of the second round of a sensational battle for the gloves' crown in Madison Square Garden Monday night. His Chicago-Western team, however, lost to the New York-Eastern squad 12-4.

Some expert observers said Hodge is a better boxing prospect right now than Rocky Marciano was at the same stage of his career. Rocky, the retired heavyweight champion, turned pro when he was nearly 25.

"I'll take two or three weeks, maybe longer, to think it over," said Hodge. "I know I've got a lot to learn. I like boxing. It's fun. I like wrestling, too. Maybe I might try for the Olympics in both boxing and wrestling if the schedule permits it."

Father of two, Hodge works for an oil company in Wichita.

His victory saved the Chicago team from its worst licking in the 30-year series. Back in 1932 New York walloped the West, 12-4.

Chicago, however, still leads in the series, 15-8, with eight ties.

Red Wings Meet Canadiens In Stanley Cup Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The Stanley Cup playoffs, matching the four top teams in the National Hockey League, get under way tonight with the Detroit Red Wings meeting the clampon Canadiens at Montreal, and the Rangers and Boston Bruins clashing at New York.

The semifinal series for the world professional hockey title is on the best-of-seven games basis, and the experts were forecasting a long, tough battle possibly going the limit.

In trying to pick a winner of the Montreal-Detroit series, it depends upon which half of the regular season is considered. The Canadiens beat the Red Wings five times, with one loss and a tie in the first half. But Montreal hadn't defeated the Wings since Jan. 30, and the teams broke even in the second half, each with two victories, plus three ties.

Montreal, winner of the Stanley Cup for the last two years, finished well ahead of the second-place Rangers. Detroit was third and Boston fourth.

Stanley Cup games are played to a decision. In event of a tie after regulation time, sudden death overtime is held with the first team to score winning the game.

The second games will be played in New York and Montreal on Thursday. The rest of the Boston-New York games will be played on Boston ice. Montreal and Detroit play the third and fourth games in Detroit and then alternate home and home, as needed.

Two Men Jailed For Contributing

LISBON — Two Lisbon men were sentenced to terms of six months and four months in county jail for contributing to delinquency of two 15-year-old girls Monday afternoon by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Orrie Myers, 32, received the six months sentence and Paul Bruey, 20, four months for taking the two girls to a tavern at Guilford Lake and then to a drive-in theatre in Canton. They were picked up at 5:15 a.m. Sunday by the sheriff's night patrol.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFoss said his deputy brought the four to county jail after he apprehended them on Furnace Road northwest of Lisbon, near the McKinley Scout reservation.

Judge Tobin temporarily turned the girls to the county welfare department.

REDLEGS LOOK GOOD

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts, who started spring training with 21 pitchers, say the Cincinnati Redlegs hurling situation is still full of question. But some of Tebbetts' rookies are beginning to look good. In Monday's 4-3 exhibition victory over Philadelphia, Charley Rabe in three innings limited the Phils to one run and even contributed the winning margin with a bases-loaded single in the sixth.

Truck's Sudden Stop Is Fatal To Driver

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—Nathaniel H. McConnell, 4, of Cleveland, Ohio, was killed Monday when a load of steel he was hauling in a truck shifted and crushed his cab. Police believe McConnell attempted an abrupt stop at a railroad viaduct on M-59 near the eastern Pontiac limits, causing the load to break its bindings and shift forward.

Jesus of Nazareth

A New Interpretation of the Life of Our Savior

By Norman Vincent Peale

SYNOPSIS

Editor's Note: This is the story of Jesus as it might have been written by a youth of 18 who lived in Palestine at the time. The narrator is Joshua, a nephew of the disciple Peter.

Yesterday, Joshua told how he and his friend, Benhadad, often saw Jesus and listened as He talked with His disciples.

CHAPTER 2

For weeks prior to the great festival of Passover, we followed Jesus, listening to His sermons and watching the mystifying things

He did. And along the way, Jesus attracted hundreds of new followers, and His popularity grew.

The festival was being held in Jerusalem. Thousands of pilgrims from Galilee and Judea were streaming toward the Holy City. We went up on to Bethany where Jesus stayed with His friends. On the 10th day of Nisan, Jesus and His disciples started for Jerusalem.

The ancient writer Zechariah had said that the Messiah would enter the city "humble and riding on an ass." And the prophet had called upon Jerusalem to welcome Him with hosannas. That is exactly what the people did that day as Jesus rode along, leading His stalwart followers.

There was something about Him that both awed and excited the crowd. They seemed to sense that a man of extraordinary power and goodness had come among them. Even Benhadad was impressed, although he jeered and wouldn't admit it.

BENHADED AND I followed the last in the group, keeping an eye on my father and uncle. Close by, I saw the man called Lazarus. A short time before, at Bethany, Jesus had raised him from the dead.

Benhadad said it had been a trick, and Jesus was just another faker, but seeing Lazarus now, his face ruddy with health, his body strong and agile, I could hardly believe that trickery could accomplish such a miracle. He ran along with the crowd, cheering the man who had given him life again.

I said nothing about Lazarus to Benhadad. He would have mocked my willingness to believe.

I noticed another healthy-looking fellow, whose face seemed familiar. He was shouting at the top of his voice and waving palm branches. Then I realized I'd seen him in Samaria. He'd been a leper. Jesus had healed 10 lepers, but only this one had returned to thank Him, and here he was thanking Him again by loud acclaim.

I saw a woman step from the crowd as Jesus rode by. She reached out and brushed His garment with the ends of her fingers as a mother might touch the cheek of an infant. And by that gesture, I knew her.

SHE WAS the woman who had approached Jesus one day and shyly touched the hem of His tunic, explaining, "If I touch His garment, I shall be made well."

I recalled how Jesus had turned and said, "Take heart, daughter, your faith has made you well." I saw a nobleman, a ruler who looked out of place among all the simple, common people, dressed as he was in fine clothes. He stood tall and erect, shouting along with the rest, and I noticed tears on his face. This man had come to Him one day, asking healing for his little girl. Jesus went to his house and took the child by the hand, and the girl was made well.

There were those and more: Some followed because they had experienced His wonders, as I myself had; others followed, hoping to see new wonders; some, no doubt, just out of curiosity, because there are always crowd followers.

But surely most of these people wanted to believe that He was what He claimed to be, the Messiah, he Son of David, who had come to set the people free from the domination of the Romans.

THE PROCESSION swept up and over the ridge where first begins the Mount of Olives.

At this point, there is a view of the southeastern corner of the city—a city of palaces, rising terrace upon terrace from the palace of the Maccabees to that of the high priests. On the summit stands the grandest palace of all, with frowning towers and magnificent gardens, the royal palace of King Herod. And farther on, around a shoulder of the Mount of Olives, the whole city came into sight.

Rising above was the temple tower, and Jerusalem's walls. It seemed as though the majestic city rose out of a deep abyss. It was the most beautiful sight I had ever seen.

Then a strange thing occurred. Jesus stopped. He raised His hands before Him. Tears bloomed His eyes and His body shook with sobs.

Only later did we learn what had happened. Suddenly, as lighting on a dark night sharply etches a landscape, Jesus saw in detail the destruction of Jerusalem exactly as He said it would occur years hence. He saw its towers, turrets and walls falling and thousands being killed because of their rejection of God.

With outstretched arms, He cried out at the desolation His mind had envisioned. Whether it ever happens as He saw it, I will never know, but that look upon His face was of one who looked upon terrible things.

HE MOVED ON. The crowds were joined by even larger throngs pouring out of the city. Word of His approach had long since preceded Him, and the people of Jerusalem came to meet this revolutionary from Galilee, this would-be conqueror who rose like a king to the gates of the Holy City.

There were whispers in the crowd: Was the moment of freedom at hand? It was said that the high priests Annas and Caiaphas waited nervously on the ramparts fearing possible disorder—and even worse.

A soldier brought the report that Pilate, the anti-Jewish Roman governor of Judea, had closed himself in his palace and would admit no one. The temple spies mingled with the followers. A revolution would not sit well with the foreign office at Rome.

Then the guards descended. Their number was doubled and redoubled. They held their gleaming spears at alert. And still Jesus advanced.

"Hosanna to the Son of David!" cried the multitude, just as the prophets had foretold.

AND STILL Jesus advanced. He rode His humble beast with a majesty that quickened the heartbeat.

He entered the temple area and stilled His mount.

Benhadad could hardly contain himself with the excitement.

"Now it will happen," he told me eagerly, his voice tight with the expectancy of violence. "He has only to say the word, lift His hand."

His admiration for the attention Jesus now commanded was undisguised. Time stood still. Jesus did not move.

"Does He not know this is the moment?" Benhadad demanded. "Strike!" he shouted. But instead . . .

Quietly Jesus looked around. He beheld the two groups—the Roman soldiers and His followers—each ready for combat. Then He turned and led His band back toward Bethany.

There was terrible disappointment in His decision.

"He is not only a fool but a coward," Benhadad said, and my Uncle Peter told him to still his tongue.

His revolution, we were told, was not to be by force. It was to be the revolution of an idea—love instead of force. It might take a long, long time, but Jesus felt that His way would triumph in the end.

UNCLE PETER told us that Jesus once said, "Think not that I have come to abolish the law and the prophets, but to fulfill them."

But we could not comprehend the meaning.

That night, Benhadad and I lay out in the field and talked of the day's events. When Benhadad is disturbed, he is like a wounded lion.

"Why could not I have been given such an opportunity?" he stormed, and he struck the earth with his clenched fists. "He had a legion behind Him and all Jerusalem before Him waiting to be taken, and what did your hero do? He turned away as a woman turns from the sight of blood."

"It is not fear that prompts His behavior, Benhadad, for I have seen His courage. Perhaps His way is not what it would seem to be," I suggested. "Perhaps it will prove to be a better way."

BENHADED glanced at me as he would glance at a traitor. He sat up abruptly.

"Do you intend to go on following this charlatan?" His voice, held the edge of anger; I knew the sound and feared it. "There are many things to do in Caernarvon more satisfying to me. I am going back."

He was silent for a moment, and then he faced me.

"Are you going with me—or with Him?"

I wanted to stay. In my heart, I knew I wanted to stay. But I feared losing Benhadad as a friend.

"I shall go with you," I told him.

He nodded and smiled and lay back. For the first time in my life, I felt completely alone.

And so we left Jesus.
